ACTING CHIEF GLASSMAN

City Police Considering Shotguns

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON Because of the increase in wanton killings of police officers in the line of duty across the nation, which authorities say starkly dramatizes a move away from respect for the law, Acting Kingston Police Chief Julius Glassman is considering a move to equip all patrol cars with shotguns.

Meanwhile, Sheriff William B. Martin, a veteran state trooper, said that the practice of carrying a 12 gauge police type shotgun in each police car used by his deputies will be continued for the safety of his men and the public.

Recently there has been a sharp increase of violent assaults on law enforcement personnel from coast to coast.

Statistical figures from the FBI note that wanton attacks on police officers by people with knives, clubs, blackjacks, bombs, broken bottles and even machine guns, have resulted in the deaths of more than 100 policemen in the past year. The FBI figures also show that policemen fatally assaulted in line of duty have more than doubled in the past decade.

Acting Chief Glassman recalled that several years ago Kingston police department vehicles were equipped with shotguns, and each officer was responsible for loading and unloading the guns when they completed a tour of night duty.

That practice was discontinued sometime ago for safety reasons, Glassman said.

Glassman Assaying Need

But, today with the rise in cop-killing, Glassman said he is seriously considering renewing the plan to equip each car with a shotgun and train each officer in the proper handling and use of the guns if the need arises. Glassman said that the cost of purchasing the equipment needed to secure the shotguns in police vehicles is quite high, and funds would have to be forthcoming before the plan is put into effect.

Special

Sheriff Martin recalled the days when he was a state trooper. "We always had a 30-30 carbine rifle in our car while out on the road nights," he said.

Martin noted that each car in his department is equipped with a shotgun and his men have been thoroughly trained to properly handle and use them if needed in any emergency.

"I wouldn't make any bones about using the guns if necessary," the sheriff said. "I wouldn't be timid about using the shotgun for my protection and the protection of the citizens." He said his personal car also is equipped with a shotgun and sufficient ammunition to cope with any troublesome situation.

"The shotguns and ammunition are part of the equipment of each of my deputies," Martin added.

The officers in both departments also are equipped with canisters of the gas known as Mace, and sidearms, the officials noted.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the State Police explained that the department's vehicles are not equipped with shotguns or carbines, which reportedly were part of the equipment several years ago. Shotguns and other weapons and materials are always available at the trooper's barracks in the event of trouble.

The most recent incidents involving fatal attacks on police officers were recorded in New York City on the night of May 21 when two policemen were ambushed and gunned down in the Harlem district. The victims were Patrolmen Waverly Jones, 34, a Negro from Manhattan, and Joseph Magentini, 28, of Suffolk County. The two had answered a legitimate call to help a sick person moments before they were killed.

The incident brought an immediate proposal from Edward Kiernan, president of the PBA, to allow police to carry shotguns. Kiernan suggested that police "shoot to kill" if necessary.

The proposal was rejected by Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy who said, "policemen in New York City will not shoot first and ask questions later."

Teachers OK Pact Overwhelmingly

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON The Kingston Teachers Federation has "overwhelmingly" ratified a new contract for the 1971-72 school year with Kingston Schools Consolidated calling for a $400 across the board salary increase.

The announcement was made following Thursday night's regular meeting of the school board at the George Washington School. The teachers ratified the contract at a meeting on May 26, the joint announcement being made by William C. Turcotte, associate superintendent for personnel and Vincent Cioni, president of the KTF and its chief negotiator.

The settlement will add more than $200,000 to the school budget which will be presented to the public on June 16 at the George Washington School. The board will meet on June 29 to approve a final budget.

School officials were unable to announce final tax rate figures for the coming year since negotiations with middle management personnel are still underway. There are 41 persons involved ranging in title from dean of boys and girls to principals with more than 91 professional staff under them. The present salary range for the middle management group is from $11,600 per year to $17,800 per year.

The new contract for teachers will raise the starting salary of a teacher in the system with a bachelor's degree and no graduate credits from the present $7,350 per year to $7,750 per year. Under the new schedule, a teacher with a master's degree in his or her first year would receive $8,410.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree and 30 graduate credits and 15 years experience would receive $12,800. A teacher with a master's degree and 15 years and 60 graduate credits past his or her master's would receive $14,010.

According to Cioni and Turcotte, there were no changes in fringe benefits in this fourth contract negotiated between the teachers and the district since the advent of the Taylor Law.

The new contract was unanimously approved by the Board of Education last night. Acceptance of the contract completed negotiations which began in January.

In other action, the board received a lengthy report from its Communications Committee, chaired by Milton Reynolds, which met on May 11. Reynolds said the committee will spend the summer reviewing sections of the school board manual of operations dealing with conduct of school board members in regards to dealing with the public. Reynolds also called for a complete review of that manual over a five-year period.

Reynolds made several suggestions to "open the lines of communication" between the board and the public. The chairman proposed the establishment of a committee to include the communications committee of the board and school district residents and "hope-fully, students," to work out guidelines. Reynolds' suggestion to reserve a half an hour after each board meeting where residents could direct questions at any board members was adopted and put into immediate effect.

Board President Thomas Reynolds noted that the new post-board sessions would not pre-empt the pre-board sessions with the public, the difference being that only Reynolds, as board president would speak before the meetings of the board while any member could speak at the post-board meetings but that their statements would be their personal opinions and not official board policy.

Louis A. Salzmänn, superintendent of schools, announced that Regents exams will start on June 18 and continue from June 21 to 24. Elementary school students will be dismissed for the summer at noon on June 24.

Baccalaureate ceremonies for graduating seniors will be held on June 27 at 2 p.m. at the Community Theater on Broadway.

Commencement will be June 30 at 8 p.m. at Dietz Stadium. In case of rain, ceremonies will be held at the Kate Walton Field House.

Salzmänn also reported on the building program at School No. 7, being converted into an administration building for the district. The work is on schedule, Salzmänn said, and is expected to be completed "on target," on or about Sept. 1.

Work on the new Anna Devine School in Rifton is "progressing reasonably well," according to the superintendent and the main section will be open by Sept. 1 with completion of the remainder following shortly thereafter.

Edward J. Whalen, from Nyack, will be the principal of the new Rifton School, built for children in grades one through six.

Boundaries for the new 650 student school, which will draw some 200 children from the Port Ewen School, were also announced at last night's board meeting. The Rifton School district will be bounded on the north by Mountain Road, Eddyville, and Rt. 213; on the west by the Rondout Creek and the Central Hudson Dam; on the northeast by Union Center Road and the New York Central Railroad tracks; on the south by the Town of New Paltz line; on the southeast by Martin Swedis Road and Barbarito's and on the east by Esopus Avenue and the New York Central tracks.

Finally, Salzmänn announced that the district's reading programs on the elementary level would be evaluated during the coming year, beginning on Sept. 1. Also under review will be the district's multi-media (remedial reading) program.

The board will meet for the final time this (fiscal) year on June 29 to adopt a budget for the 1971-72 school year and elect its officers for the coming year. Joseph Feraca, elected last month to a five-year term, will join the board on July 1, replacing Bevier Sleight. Mrs. Evelyn Corsones, reelected last month, will begin another five-year term.

Rocky, Albany Leaders Blast John V. Lindsay

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and top Republican legislative leaders Thursday said the "inept and extravagant" administration of Mayor John V. Lindsay has caused a loss of confidence in the ability of New York City to handle its problems.

The statement was considered by many to be one of the sharpest public criticisms of Lindsay by Rockefeller—two Republican politicians who have been at odds for years but usually conduct their battles in private.

The statement, signed by Rockefeller, State Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and State Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, came in the middle of the city's annual budget crisis.

Other State Legislature stories on Page 5.

Legislative leaders have been irritated because Lindsay has refused to cut any of his proposed $9.1 billion budget. New York City's budget must be approved by the state legislature.

For weeks the legislative and state budget experts have claimed the city budget figures were $400 million off because of poor estimates. But when City Budget Chief Edward Hamilton returned to Albany for talks this week he reportedly told the state leaders he had found only $12 that may be in error, and he wasn't even sure of that.

"Progress in solving New York City's fiscal problems is seriously hindered by a growing loss of confidence in the city," Thursday's statement said.

This loss of confidence is deepened by accumulated evidence of declining city services due to inept and extravagant administration of the city government—and an apparent inability to take effective action.

The statement said Lindsay made "every effort to avoid the responsible choices" and threatened that public services would be the first to go if the budget was cut.

"It is of crucial importance that we do not take measures this which could turn a transitory crisis into economic disaster," the statement said.

"Such measures are precisely what Mayor Lindsay insists on. The new taxes he seeks are on a large scale which could well destroy the city's own economy and endanger the state as a whole—driving out job-producing business and industry."

The statement also talked about the "growing loss of confidence in the mayor's administration of the city."

"The governor just got mad and let him have it," one of the men who has been in the negotiations on the city problem since its start said. "Brydges and Duryea have felt this way all along, but it was the governor who had it up to here that we do not take measures this

Ronan Prods Businessmen On the Jetport Silence

By TIM SCHUSTER

FISHKILL The chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, Dr. William J. Ronan, Thursday night chastised area business leaders for what he termed "a crescendo of silence" in defense of development of the Stewart jetport.

While shedding little new light on the particulars of the proposal itself, Dr. Ronan, in addressing the annual meeting of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association, stressed his wholehearted support of Governor Rockefeller's quest to buy up land adjacent to the airport as a "land bank."

The matter is currently before New York State's legislative bodies with a price tag of $30 million.

Dr. Ronan urged the MHIA to become "an important message-bearer to the rest of the business community" while commenting that "silence, especially on the part of the majority, is tantamount to consent."

"I am constantly amazed to see our business community stand by idly while the region is being torn down by detractors and paralyzed by handwringers," he said.

A question from the audience was raised as to whether Dr. Ronan felt the MTA could do an impartial survey of utilizing the airport in Newburgh.

Congressman John Dow has publicly stated that the MTA, as an agency of the proponent, Governor Rockefeller, cannot be impartial.

"I disagree with Mr. Dow," said Dr. Ronan. "The MTA can conduct an objective study. The proof will be in the pudding."

When asked why the governor had made his announcement about development of the airport without consulting area legislators for support, Dr. Ronan replied that it is "not traditional" in New York to ask local legislators on such matters.

Several persons in the audience expressed a fear that air traffic holding patterns similar to those experienced around the New York airports would result at Newburgh, thus affecting a large surrounding area.

Dr. Ronan emphasized his contention that "Stewart will not be another Kennedy airport" and told the audience that Stewart's distance from the congested New York air traffic would work in its favor.

In his prepared remarks, Dr. Ronan said in part that "this facility, properly developed, can be the greatest single boon to the economic growth of the mid-Hudson area since the completion of the Thruway."

He cited as positive points in Stewart's favor "its proximity to major highways and the Thruway, its capability to be linked by high-speed rail to the existing Graham Line of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, its location outside the more congested airspace of the complex of airports surrounding planet."

New York City, and the availability of relatively undeveloped adjacent land for expansion and buffering purposes . . .

While noting that the Federal Aviation Association has been authorized to make a study of the situation, Dr. Ronan said that the "first logical step must be the development of a land bank, regardless of ultimate airport functions, so as not to foreclose on the future."

He termed this "phased development," and forecast a reversal of "an already serious unemployment situation" in this region.

Dr. Ronan pleaded for a need for "close cooperation by local jurisdictions" and predicted that "with air cargo in its infancy, the mid-Hudson area could become the national hub for such activity."

In answer to those who expressed concern for the ecology, Dr. Ronan stated: "Insofar as the ecology is concerned, I maintain that the sound approach calls for a sensitive appreciation of our environment as we advance our efforts to improve man's lot on this planet."

C-H on Summer— Power Supply There

KINGSTON—Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation reported today that it will have sufficient electric power to serve all of its customers throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley this summer, barring unforeseen forced outages of equipment.

The utility pointed out that since the first of the year two major generating units have been overhauled and two others are being overhauled at the present time while the units are out of service for conversion to the use of oil as a fuel instead of coal. All should be in good condition to meet the heavy loads usually experienced during the hot weather periods in the summer.

Commission Approves Center, Arterial

KINGSTON—Three Mid-Hudson area projects — Rondout Community Center and an arterial highway in Kingston, and St. Luke's Hospital parking field in Newburgh — were approved after review by the Hudson River Valley Commission.

No unreasonable impairment of the area was found in the Commission's review of the site plans, according to HRCV chairman Fergus Reid III. In two instances, specific recommendations for improvement of the projects were offered.

Sponsored by the City of Kingston, Rondout Community Center will be located at Broadway and Spring Streets in the City's downtown section. The $285,000 project has already received a grant approval of $193,512 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for a part of the cost.

The 2.84-mile Kingston arterial, planned by the State Department of Transportation, is part of a long-range project to improve conditions on Route 9W. Although there was no major objection to this segment of the arterial as to its effect on the Kingston Urban Renewal area and other related projects, the Commission recommended that the Department study the entire development corridor, from the section north of Route 32 to Route 199, rather than only the section passing through Kingston.

With only one dissenting vote, the Ulster County Legislature Thursday night agreed to request an investigation be made to determine if the State of New York and Westchester County were negligent in the transporting of criminals in Ulster County when a shootout with police occurred on the New York State Thruway in Plattekill in 1968.

Only Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, Democratic City Legislator, objected to the resolution introduced by Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2).

Dr. Gorman said he was wondering whether the move wouldn't "open a Pandora's box of second guessing a police department." He also suggested that the investigation "would open up human suffering of the family of the policeman killed in the shootout."

County Attorney Abram F. Molyneux said there was no question of the meritorious intent of the resolution and added that it now empowers him to follow through on the investigation.

The measure passed 30-1. Two legislators were absent.

A party line vote decided another issue before the board — a bill requesting that resolutions be stamped with the time and date of filing in order that they may be acted upon in the sequence of their filing.

Sponsored by City Democratic Legislator William F. Edelmuth, the measure had the apparent backing of the 11 Democrats but met with solid opposition from the Republican side of the aisle. The GOP wanted to refer it to the Legislative and Rules Committee and the Democrats didn't. The vote went 20-11 in favor of the referral.

A request for a comprehensive study of the Ulster County Health Laws was approved but not without discussion.

Legislators Ralph Brach (R-Dist. 9) and Charles Scala (R-Dist. 1) sponsors of the resolution, suggested the move to meet current and projected needs, especially with regard to subdivisions.

Minority Leader Roger Mabie (D-Dist. 7) asked if the county operated under state health laws and Brach replied that the state law did not apply to counties which have a Board of Health such as Ulster.

Mabie then asked Melvin Mones (R-City) chairman of the Public Health Committee, for his opinion and Mones suggested that certain local health laws could be strengthened.

Mabie suggested that as long as there are what he called "grey areas" that the matter be referred to the Public Health Committee.

A short roll call on the referral brought a "no" from the GOP and a "yes" from the Democrats.

Voting on the measure itself, both parties jointly approved it in a short roll call.

George Barthel (D-Dist. 10) objected saying he would like to speak on the matter. "A short roll call is not right," he suggested, but he spoke too late, according to Chairman of the Board Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8).

Views on police matters were expressed by William G. Davis (D-City) at the time the entire legislature voted to send five members of the district attorney's office to a conference at Lake Placid, June 18, 19.

Favoring the resolution, Davis lauded District Attorney Francis J. Vogt for his recent criticism of a local county judge's "lenient" sentence in the case of a drug seller. "I wonder how parents feel about such light sentences?" Davis asked. Referring to the upcoming conference, an annual one for district attorneys in the state, Davis said, "I'm glad to vote for it."

In other business the legislature authorized the board chairman to enter into contracts for equipment for Ulster County Community College, gave permission for a contract for the gauging station on Esopus Creek, transferred funds for the purchase of a new calculating machine for the Ulster County Planning Board and gave permission to Charles Schultz, director of probation, to attend a conference June 27-30 at Whiteface.

Legislator Lawrence Craft (R-Dist. 10), chairman of the bridge and highway committee, and his committee sought $20,000 in additional "necessary" funds for the memorializing the late Kenneth to the late Ward Jansen, financing of the North Ellenville Flood Control Project. By a

Assemblyman from Woodstock Legislator S. Robert Kelder (R-Dist. 2) and LeRoy Boice of the Town of Ulster, Legislators Savago, Lewis Kirschner (D-Dist. 7) and William West (R-Dist. 12) offered the tribute to Wilson and of the Perrine's Bridge in Rifton

Legislator Elmendorf presented the resolution honoring Boice, saying that 5 out of 12 picnic tables had been stolen and other damage reported.

U.S. Jobless Rate Back to 9-Year High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate moved back up in May to match a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent of the U.S. work force, the government said today.

Jobless rates rose especially for construction workers and sales workers and young women, and the number of long-term unemployed—27 weeks or more—climbed substantially, the Labor Department said.

The national jobless rate was up from 6.1 per cent in April, said the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The actual number of jobless Americans dropped 300,000 to a total of 4.4 million, but because it usually declines more than that in May the bureau figured it as a rise of 130,000 on a seasonal basis.

The bureau also reported that average earnings of some 45 million rank and file workers—more than half the nation's work force—rose two cents an hour to $3.40 and increased $1.41 per week to $125.46.

Steel, Metals Take Upturn During May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for steel and other metals and a sharp jump for gasoline were major factors in pushing over-all wholesale prices up four-tenths of one per cent last month, the government said today.

"Continued strength in metal and metal products prices and a sharp upturn in the fuels indexes caused about 70 per cent of the total rise for industrials," said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The May increase pushed the government's Wholesale Price Index up to 113.8. This means wholesale goods worth $100 on the average in the 1967 base period cost $113.80 last month.

Troopers Probe Thefts From Red Hook Plane

RHINEBECK State Police BCI officers from the local sub-station today pursued investigation of thefts of equipment valued at more than $1,500 from a Cherokee plane owned by John J. Ferran of Atwood in Ulster County and based at the Sky Park Airport in Red Hook.

The airport raiders are believed to have been frightened away after they had removed a Mark 12 A-90 radio and case valued by the owner at more than $1,000 and a VOA Omni head—a directional finder and cable, valued by Ferran at about $500.

According to the owner of the aircraft, who ironically operates the "Honest John" used car lot on East Chester Street by-pass in Kingston, the thieves evidently used a crowbar and other implements to rip off a door to enter the plane.

Ferran said the door will have to be replaced and repairs made to the framework which also was damaged in the process of removing the accessories. Other structural damage was reported by the Kingston man, who said the theft occurred sometime last week.

Ferran has offered a $300 reward for the recovery of the items taken and an additional $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thieves.

Additional Charges Against City Men

KINGSTON Arrested on charges of burglary third degree as they reportedly were leaving the Kingston Maennerchor Inc., hall at 37 Greenkill Avenue on the morning of May 22, two men appeared today in City Court and faced additional charges, according to police.

Paul Irwin Becker, 29, of 97 Downs Street, and Raymond VanNostrand, 27, of 22 Stuyvesant Street, were taken in custody by Detective Joseph Ferraro, who was on his way to work and saw the pair walking from the Greenkill Avenue building. They allegedly had 37 bottles of beer and a quantity of ginger ale and other items reportedly taken from the hall.

Subsequent investigation resulted in the issuance of a search warrant and police went to Becker's apartment where they said they found an antique payonnet and a sheath and a quantity of assorted meat authorities charge had been taken from the Sun Restaurant on Central Broadway during a break-in on May 13. Police also said they found a sander valued at $100, three propane fuel tanks and a torch kit that authorities said had been taken from the Shults Paint Store at 10 Dederick Street during a break-in on May 20.

Becker today was booked on two counts of criminal possession of stolen property.

Police also noted that they had recovered a .38 caliber revolver valued at $84.50 at Van Nostrand's home. They said the gun had been allegedly taken from Spada's Sport Shop on Broadway.

This morning, Van Nostrand faced a charge of illegal possession of a firearm, according to detectives.

Burglars Net $157 in Two Ellenville Jobs

ELLENVILLE Two apartment burglaries that netted approximately $157 in cash were under investigation today by village police.

Officer John Corwin said Gilbert Perez of 109 Canal Street, notified authorities at 6 a.m. that someone had entered his apartment between 1 and 6 a.m. and stole $126 from his wallet. Entry was gained through an open window, police said.

At 8:20 a.m., Israel Needleman of 184 Canal Street, complained to police that someone entered his upstairs apartment through an open window and stole 12 50-cent pieces and about $25 that was taken from his pocketbook in the kitchen.

Police also reported the arrest Thursday afternoon of Thomas Cleary, 37, of 99 Sanford Street, Brooklyn, on charges of petit larceny and public intoxication. The arrest was made by Sergeant John Phillips, who reported the defendant allegedly attempted to steal merchandise valued at $6.98 from the Rothkopf store in the village. Cleary was held for arraignment in court.

Help for Military Addicts

At long last, narcotics addiction in the military services will be recognized more as an illness than as a punishable offense inimical to discipline and esprit de corps. This was implicit in President Nixon's announcement that military addicts will be treated before their release from the Armed Forces.

The President in his news conference Tuesday evening announced a national attack on drug use and called the use of heroin and other "hard" drugs by GIs in Vietnam a special problem.

It would not be unreasonable to suppose that the reported addiction of a variously estimated 37,000 to 60,000 men, out of 260,000 soldiers in Vietnam, has had an impact on the conduct of the war.

Heroin is both cheap and readily available in Vietnam and deaths by overdose are mounting.

The services are only beginning to take advantage of an eighth-month-old directive authorizing, not requiring, amnesty for individuals admitting to drug use. But little has been done to send addicts to military hospitals for detoxification and a lecture.

It is clearly the Pentagon's obligation to deal with the overall problem medically and effectively before returning addicted men to civilian life. Society's interest in minimizing addiction is equally obvious.

The President also declared his opposition to legalizing marijuana because it would encourage young people to start down that long dismal road to self-destruction.

The fact that so many young people have had such bad experiences with the weed, it may be merely a passing fad. It may also be a matter of experimentation with something "new." As one of the users put it, "I've discovered a whole new high."

This kind of statement has about the same intellectual depth as similar ones extolling pot.

Marijuana is a dangerous drug and there should be no rush to legalize it.

The Firebug

Arson has increased dramatically in the United States in recent years, and especially in California, where the 21st firebomb attack on a Bank of America office occurred the other day.

Fire officials attribute much, if not most, of the increase to the fact that arson has come into its own as a form of "social protest."

According to the National Fire Protection Association, known incendiary or suspicious fires accounted for 5.8 per cent of all fires in the United States in 1969, the last year for which complete figures are available. This compares with a percentage of 2.3 in 1959.

According to the California Governor's Arson Information Study Group, the rate of incendiary fires in that state increased an estimated 87 per cent in the last three years. At the same time, the total number of fires, both criminal and accidental, rose only 19 per cent.

In other words, the rate of arson increased more than four times as fast as the combined fire total.

"Beginning with the Watts riots in 1965," states the California group, "the factor of fire bombings and arson as a means of dissent became a dominant and significant motive for incendiary fires."

"Organized groups have already distributed leaflets, pamphlets, 'underground' newspaper articles and have furnished speakers and demonstrators to instruct and advise on the construction or various kinds of incendiary and explosive devices."

There was a time when the firebug was considered a sick, deranged person. Today he can cloak himself in the garb of righteousness and be considered by some misguided people as a brave fighter against the forces of repression.

Better Than Money

With apologies to Rudyard Kipling, if you can keep your cool in a monetary crisis while all about you are losing theirs, you must have a credit card, my son.

It seems that during the recent "dollar crisis" in Europe, when many American tourists suddenly discovered that their greenbacks or travelers checks were considered so much funny money by the local populace, holders of credit cards had no such problem.

The cards had to be of the international variety, of which there are three major ones—American Express, Diners' Club and Carte Blanche.

The reason is that the issuers of these cards pay merchants, innkeepers, etc., in their own currency when they present the chits. Thus it is immaterial to proprietors how much the value of the dollar may be fluctuating in relation to their national currency. In fact, they are eager to do business.

There comes the day of reckoning, of course, when the tourist gets back home and has to reimburse the company in good (?) old American dollars.

Eight men and one woman won this year's highest awards for science. Presenting them, President Nixon said these nine can lead the nation in peaceful pursuits. They explored the unknown to make progress possible.

"Shake, Soul Brother!"

David Lawrence Says Youth Rebellions Are Not Confined to One Country

WASHINGTON — President Nixon the other day, in a speech at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, said that the United States has "good ground to believe that the hope for a new era of world peace will come true." But the news dispatches from around the world are constantly telling of domestic unrest which again and again emphasizes that internal peace is by no means assured in many countries.

Thus, 200,000 Japanese recently held nationwide rallies demanding that Okinawa be returned to Japan without allowing military facilities or nuclear weapons to be based there by the United States. There was criticism, too, about the sending of 6,000 Japanese troops to the island.

Troubles in Ireland are regularly reported. Riots and disturbances in many European countries have often been in the headlines in the last few years. Some of the "demonstrations" are not unlike those in the United States.

In Latin America, there are frequent outbreaks by organized groups. On this continent Canada as well as Mexico have had their troubles with disorders by dissidents.

An impression has prevailed that the youth in America have been primarily responsible for the unrest here, and many a college President or spokesman has endeavored to explain that the demand for change is natural in the evolution of man.

What has been disturbing, however, is the use of violence and particularly the indifference shown by some of the organized groups of protesters to the fact that lives have been lost and innocent persons have been injured as the result of fighting that has been stirred up in many of the so-called rallies and marches. There are some analysts who are saying that drug abuse and alcohol have played a part in the irresponsible behavior of many of the persons who have participated in the demonstrations. But this doesn't explain the continual demand for "change."

There was a time when political parties sought the power that could be derived from public offices and individual organizations backed candidates who had definite programs of reform and carried on campaigns to get public approval by street parades and other publicity methods. There was no thought of causing disorders or becoming involved in situations that would require the police or National Guard to be summoned.

Whatever the underlying cause of the youth rebellions nowadays, it is not confined to any one country. There are evidences of the same kind of dissent in many lands. Also, the riot and resort to violence — bombings and explosions — seem to have become commonplace everywhere. Never in history have there been so many attacks on the innocent nor such brazen attempts to interfere with the processes of government openly and by spectacular demonstrations.

Public opinion in the United States is slowly being mobilized to pay more attention to the complaints of youth. Many books are being written about the responsibilities of parents, and the necessity for better home training as children grow up. It probably will take a number of years for the effects of remedial measure to be felt.

Meanwhile, at least there is no war threatening, and the chances of international conflict are truly, as the President declares, not very likely. He summed it up in his speech by saying:

"America and the Soviet Union, the two great superpowers, are committed more seriously than ever before to working out an agreement that will limit strategic arms. America and Mainland China, after more than 20 years of hostility and isolation, are beginning to move toward a new and more normal relationship. The nations of Europe are taking important steps toward greater unity. The truce in the Middle East will soon be a year old."

"None of this is cause for Euphoria. The Harvest time of peace is not yet. What we can say, though, is that the seeds of peace are planted, and that they are germinating in a way that seems to hold great promise. Certainly the chances for a full generation of peace in America and the world are stronger today than at any other period in our lifetime."

Citizens will wonder what the real chances are for peace inside America and if there could be a significant move toward a more and more normal relationship between the younger and the older generations in our own country.

PADRES GOT HOT UNDER THE COLLAR

Some of you may recall that I wrote that the dear dedicated clergy would respond to an article advising them to remain out of politics. It is impossible to reprint the pile of outraged letters that are on this desk. However, may I report that about 95 per cent of them are from Protestant ministers; 5 per cent from Catholic clergy; none from rabbis. You analyze it; I won't.

In the main, they condemn me and my belief that the clergy belongs in the pulpit. So be it. I do not abrogate their right to disagree, so long as, while committing the sin of anger on a typewriter, they allow me to remain firm in my beliefs.

Most of them searched frantically for error in the column and found it in an inadvertency near the end, where I wrote that the clergy is "tax exempt." They know and I know that this should have read that the churches, and the institutions which own them, are tax exempt. Preachers pay personal taxes. Many of the clergy are poorly paid, and few leave much of value to their kin when they die.

The wife of a minister from Brookfield, Wis., writes: "... we pay federal, state and local taxes just as any other citizen pays. This in itself gives the clergy the privilege of participating in politics." Is that so? Then the politicians who pay taxes have the privilege to preach about God and the Hereafter to the masses. Heaven is a two-way street.

Padre Bob from Denver writes: "Yes, it is a full-time job to save souls like yours, dear Jim... yes yes yes." The next four clergymen claim that their job is not to save souls, only to preach the gospel. This is followed by pastor Adolph Weaver of the Brush Valley United Methodist Church of Homer City, Penna., who, breathing brotherly love, states: If you were talking about the Catholic clergy, then you should be specific."

But then, the clergy were never united; if they aren't we, aren't. Each group arrogates to itself a gold chair on the right hand of God. George W. Herd, minister of The First Methodist Church at Lancaster, Ohio, erupts on the subject of taxes, restates the truth in all the letters that the clergyman is personally responsible for a full burden of taxes. "This may be true of your own clergy," he writes, "and in some other religious groups BUT for the Protestant minister, they are not exempt from taxes..."

Under the smug smooth skin, some perspire venom. The column, as originally written, made the point that in our culture all clergymen are special people and, if they wish to retain mass respect, they are going to have to get out of politics. Preach God. Preach salvation. You trained for the pulpit and there is no way you can invade the slime of public politics without soiling the hem of your garments.

In the first place none of you could agree on candidates, platform, war (some of our best decorated soldiers were chaplains), peace, taxes or even that hackneyed, abused phrase "brotherly love." Pastor William E. Sissell, Jr. of the Chatham-

Harwich United Methodist Parish in Massachusetts tells me that Jesus was political because when "He talked about the corruption of the priests, it was an attack upon the political establishment."

This comes as a shocker. When I researched a book called "The Day Christ Died," consulted theologians and went to Israel to walk the ground that He walked, I was under the impression that the Romans ruled the land as a province. The Jews paid taxes to Caesar. Augustus was the boss of bosses. The Sanhedrin, as I recall, tried Jesus according to their religious law and found him guilty of proclaiming himself the Messiah.

The Sanhedrin sincerely thought of Him as a faker, or else they would not have condemned the Son of God. Judaic law said the malefactor should be stoned to death, but the Romans put Him up on a cross, Roman style. I would not dare to compare my knowledge of such matters with the reverends divine, but how could so many ranking Baptists, Methodists, Lutherans, Catholics, Presbyterians and others have read the proofs of that book and said: "We find no fault with it." Dr. Samuel Hoenig of Yeshiva University read it and found it without blemish.

Please don't tell me that, 15 years later, the book is wrong. I have greater admiration and respect for Men of God than I have for any other group. All I ask is that the few — the very few — stop leading raging mobs in the street or get out of the church.

Is that too wrong?...

Jack Anderson Says

Kennedy Loyalists Infiltrate Other Candidates' Camps

WASHINGTON — The other Democratic presidential hopefuls are stewing over Sen. Ted Kennedy. For all his statements that he won't seek the presidency in 1972, they aren't fully convinced.

Not only has Kennedy passed Sen. Ed Muskie as the first choice of Democratic regulars for the nomination, but Kennedy loyalists have quietly moved into key positions on the campaign staffs of the other aspirants.

Muskie's national political director, Jack English, came out of the Kennedy camp. Such Kennedy veterans as Mike Feldman, Frank Mankiewicz and Pierre Salinger are virtually taking over the campaign of Sen. George McGovern. And ex-Kennedy aides have infiltrated the campaign organizations of just about every other likely candidate.

This puts Kennedy in a unique position to manipulate the Democratic convention in case of a deadlock. The scrambling of the other contenders, because of their sheer number, could produce a stand-off. In this event, Kennedy would have key men on each staff to prod the other candidate on to the Kennedy bandwagon.

We have concluded after some painstaking political probing that Kennedy didn't plant his men on the other staffs as a deliberate Machiavellian move. He told his loyalists that he wouldn't run in 1972 and freed them to give their best service to the candidates of their choice.

Such honorable men as Feldman and Mankiewicz, for instance, have pledged to stick with McGovern as long as he feels he has any chance for the nomination.

But the scattered Kennedy camp followers, noting Ted's improved prospects, are looking for a change in signals. The possibility is increasing that they may be asked to hold themselves in readiness for a draft Kennedy effort in case of a Democratic deadlock in 1972.

The new signal, if it comes, will be a backroom nod from Steve Smith, the Kennedy brother-in-law who is now quarterbacking the clan.

Mid-east Intelligence
From intelligence sources in Cairo and Tel Aviv, my associate Joe Spear has collected these items:

Egypt's recent overtures to the U.S., intelligence sources

now believe, were part of President Sadat's strategy to consolidate his power. He threw out his rivals, most of them identified with pro-Soviet policies, and simultaneously held out an olive branch to the West. This brought Soviet President Podgorny hurrying to Cairo to repair Soviet-Egyptian relations. Sadat obligingly stiffened his attitude toward the West and delivered a tough note to the U.S. representative in Cairo, Donald Bergus, declaring that U.S. arms to Israel implicate the U.S. in the occupation of Arab territory. The pleased Podgorny reaffirmed Soviet support of Egypt, thus indirectly endorsing Sadat and strengthening his hold on the government.

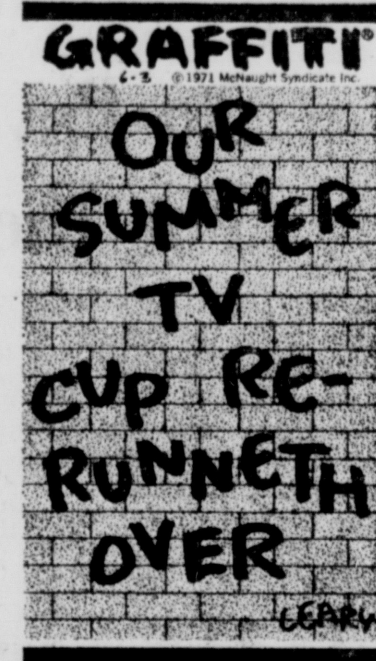

The Egyptian Army has doubled its strength since its disastrous 1967 defeat. Its arsenals not only contain the latest Soviet armaments but its troops have been trained to operate this sophisticated equipment. Soviet shipments are still arriving, largely by airlift at the Cairo west airport. The Soviet fleet also has access to Egyptian harbors and anchorages. A naval air squadron, based near Cairo, serves the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean and Red seas. An estimated 15,000 Soviet advisers and technicians are now stationed in Egypt, including more than 4,000 missile experts and 200 pilots. Is the Egyptian Army, therefore, now a match for the Israeli Army? A top

Israeli intelligence expert told Joe Spear: "We know the Egyptians can operate their new equipment. But can they extract the optimum performance from it? Can they integrate it? Can they hit the right targets at the right time? We believe this is where they are lacking."

We were the first to report that Egypt is training an amphibious force for an assault across the Suez Canal. Spear writes from Cairo, however, that we didn't tell the whole story. Actually, the entire Egyptian Army is getting amphibious training. One unit after another is put through the paces at mockup sites and on a lake in the desert south of Cairo. They also train on the canal itself, practicing their crossings from the Egyptian side to an island. The Soviets, meanwhile, are shipping in motorized rafts.

The invisible war, the unseen struggle for intelligence, is gaining in intensity. Egyptian spies have managed to infiltrate into Israel through the Arab communities. The Russians have slipped agents into Israel with immigrant Soviet Jews. The Russians also operate a spy ship, a Soviet Pueblo, about 60 miles off the Israeli coast. The ship is loaded with sophisticated electronic equipment capable of intercepting Israeli communications. Spear is persuaded, however, that the Israelis are winning the espionage war. Their spies in Egypt submit startlingly accurate reports from inside President Sadat's inner circle. Just a few days before Sadat's surprise purge of his rivals, an Israeli intelligence source told Spear: "Keep your eye on Sadat. He has staying power. He has got the army under control now."

The Israelis don't trust Sadat, refer to his peace proposal as a "paper peace." A high Israeli official told Spear: "We want peace, but we aren't moving until we can be sure the peace is worth the paper it is written on. We know Sadat. He was always the bombastic one. He was always the one for intrigue. So why has he now suddenly changed his tune? And why are we to trust him?" Spear asked the official whether there was anyone else in the Egyptian hierarchy the Israelis would rather deal with. The answer "No."

Henry J. Taylor Says

Russians Will Stay in Egypt

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny's visit to Egyptian President Anwar el-Sadat brings to CIA Director Richard M. Helms new information that dampens a major objective of President Nixon in the dangerous Israel-Arab impasse.

In his programing relating to this impasse President Nixon feels that the Soviet Union — determined to employ the strategic Indian Ocean area — does want a situation suitable for reopening the Suez Canal. Sadat convinced Secretary of State William P. Rogers of this in his recent Cairo talks with Mr. Rogers. But now enter the CIA's Cairo Findings.

For, privately, President Nixon also feels that the West should insist on a phase-out of Russian forces in Egypt. But the evidence multiplies that they are there to stay, in fact, Mr. Helms finds them slapping back hard at Sadat's May 14 purge of Vice-President Aly Sabry and 12 of Sabry's ambitious pro-Soviet cabinet.

The Kremlin included Gen. Ivan G. Pavlovsky, the First Deputy Minister of Defense, on his visit to Sadat. And surely the Kremlin knew Pavlovsky is, personally, anathema to Sadat.

A month before Gamal Abdel Nasser's last mission to Moscow, Pavlovsky visited Cairo with Red Army Chief of Staff Marshal Matvei Zakharov. Their performance was hushed up scandal. Sadat is a wily but proud man, and these Russians stupidly left no stone unturned to show their contempt for the Egyptians.

This began by barring all Egyptians within miles of the air port at Helipolis and ended in an orgy of brutal tactics by the Pavlovsky-Zakharov entourage in front of Cairo's Hilton Hotel.

Nasser immediately telephoned Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in Moscow to complain, and Kosygin sent Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, no less, to smooth things over. Dour Gromyko, however, is far from his best at a chore like this.

When Nasser went to Moscow Sadat accompanied him. There Pavlovsky gave him the brush off in public at the Kremlin banquet the night before the Egyptians returned to Cairo. Yet on the Cairo visit Podgorny threw Pavlovsky at Sadat again, as if reaching for a way to show Sadat that the Soviet intends to rule the Egyptian roost.

In short, to show Sadat that the Russians intend to stay there — although U.S. Ambassador to Moscow Jacob D. Beam has made it clear to Premier Kosygin that President Nixon feels the West should insist on a phase-out of the Russian forces in Egypt.

Mr. Helms informed Mr. Nixon that there are today an appalling 15,000 Soviet troops and 4,000 Russian technicians in Egypt. There are also six Red Army generals, and Pavlovsky brought in from Algiers Soviet Admiral Sergei G. Rorchkov, who had been visiting Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

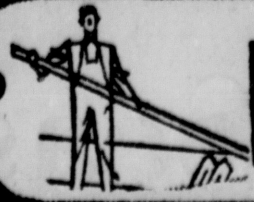

The CIA reports that, in addition to seaborne deliveries, Russia has flown in more than 800 missions of war materiel. It finds that Egypt today possesses at least 1,500 Russian tanks. She had fewer than 1,000 at the time of the June, 1967, six-day war with Israel. The CIA discovered and counted 570 Russian heavy-artillery pieces and 1,100 armored personnel carriers.

Mr. Helms told the President that these complexes represent the best air defense of any country outside NATO. And in the President's view, the hope of a phased Russian pullout now becomes hardly more than a personal dream. The U.S.S.R. has achieved too heavy a mortgage on Egypt's military and political action.

Bavarian Treatment Aids Outside Appearance

By JACK McEENEY

The outside appearance of a house is just as important as the functional qualities of the interior. Today's feature presents a variation of designing that makes the "Beegott" a contribution that will enhance any neighborhood.

The designer applied moderate Cinderella styling to eliminate the severe lines of modern form and to give it an appeal of softness and comfort within.

The exterior around the living room area is built-up of used or rustic brick with reversed board and batten for the wall as the back of the house. The roof calls for shakes 1.176 square feet of living area, and exposed rafters all around to which is added 528 square feet of garage space, complete and cement or stucco front building blueprints, drawn to the appearance of the "Beegott" and its tone available at moderate cost by using the accompanying coupon. The plans also show how you can build with wood, brick, stone or concrete block.

Casters Relieve Strain of Moving for Homeowner

By MR. FIX

The electronic age notwithstanding, a prehistoric invention is the most utilitarian device for the average homeowner.

There comes a time when you have to move a household object that is just too big or heavy to lift and too bulky for easy pushing or pulling. And that's why the wheel was invented.

Placed underneath furniture such a wheel is called a caster.

Large pieces of furniture or furniture that is likely to be moved often are generally equipped with casters. These include pianos, cribs and floor-model television sets.

Others are generally equipped with glides. A glide is a metal cap held in place at the end of the furniture leg with a pin or prongs. You will find them under such items as a chest of drawers. With glides the furniture slides easily. The glide also distributes the weight over a large part of the floor. This prevents dents and indentations. If you move furniture around frequently you may want to equip all the large pieces with casters. They are available in a wide variety of sizes, styles and materials. Use hard rubber on rugs, plastic on floors where there might be marking, steel wheels if they must rest on concrete.

The caster wheels can be mounted in either a rigid or swivel frame. The wheel moves only backward and forward in a rigid frame. A swivel caster, with the aid of ball bearings, turns in a complete circle.

Swivel casters are more expensive but worth it in versatility.

There are two general kinds of mountings for casters — stems and plates. The stem caster has a metal stem that fits into the furniture leg. A metal sleeve for the stem is generally provided. The plate caster has a flat plate above the frame. The plate is fastened to the base of the furniture with screws.

Heavy workshop items, such as floor model power tools, should be put on casters, indentation in the middle. Have equipped with a brake so that the tool can be kept in a stationary position when in use.

You also can get casters for temporary use — dolly casters or stove casters. They are called. Three wheels are attached to triangular shaped pieces of metal with a cuplike

Don't Be Misled By Low Estimate

One of the chief sources of disappointment for families on the move stems from a misunderstanding about estimates.

It is important to know that an estimate is nothing more than an educated guess of what the final moving charges will be. It is not a contract or a firm bid.

Aero Mayflower Transit Company, one of the pioneer household goods moving organizations, cautions all prospective shippers to be wary of unusually low estimates. Such estimates are sometimes used by disreputable moving firms as "bait". Mayflower points out. What the customer doesn't always realize is that the estimate has no bearing on the computation of the final charges.

Charges on long-distance or interstate moves are based on weight of shipment, mileage, and additional services performed, generally in the form of packing. All major long-distance movers currently are operating on the same tariff, so the final cost will be about the same, no matter which of these major carriers you employ. What you're buying, then, is strictly service.

Charges on most local moves are based on time and mileage, or sometimes strictly on an hourly rate. Here's where the unwary can get burned. If the estimator gives you a price based on 10 man hours to complete the job and it takes 14 man hours, you will be charged for the higher figure regardless of the estimate.

Career Second for Ken

Holtzman Hurls First No-Hitter of Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ken Holtzman's strong left arm and cooperative Cincinnati Astroturf have combined to produce the 1971 baseball season's first no-hitter.

Holtzman, the lanky Chicago left-hander, spun a 1-0 classic at the Reds to highlight the abbreviated Thursday night baseball action. In the only other game played, St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 7-1 and Atlanta downed Houston 5-2 in the National League and Boston edged New York 3-2 in American.

But the night belonged to Holtzman, who pitched the second no-hitter of his career, overcoming some early wildness and retiring the last 11

Reds in order. He struck out six, including Tommy Helms and Lee May for the final two outs in the ninth inning. The only Cincinnati runners came on four walks.

The Reds tried everything to get a hit off Holtzman and even went to the extreme of having slugger Johnny Bench lay down a leadoff bunt in the seventh inning. It was, according to Holtzman, his closest call. "At first, I thought Bench had a hit," the 25-year-old pitcher said. "There was no way I could have thrown Bench out if the ball remained fair."

Holtzman rushed off the mound, across the Astroturf-covered infield and towards the ball.

Canonero II, the People's Choice

NEW YORK (UPI)—Canonero II, the people's choice to win Saturday's Belmont Stakes and complete the first Triple Crown since Citation in 1948, galloped once around the track Thursday morning, with exercise boy Earl Whye fighting to keep the three-year-old Venezuelan-owned colt in check.

The rash on the Kentucky Derby-Preakness winner had disappeared, taking some hair with it, but it had not interfered with the colt's training, although his infected foot, also clearing rapidly, did force trainer Juan Arias to skip a couple of planned gallops for the colt.

"He is blooming, he is putting on weight," said Arias. "I haven't changed my training plans much from what I did in getting him ready for the Derby and Preakness. Of course I had to take into account that the horse has to go a mile and one-half," Arias added.

The field that will oppose the Kentucky-bred invader from Caracas was again altered as time for Friday's entry box neared. The men who own and train must decide by 10:15 a.m. EDT if they will risk taking a shot at Canonero. Probably 10 will accept the challenge.

On Thursday morning, trainer Woody Stephens was dissatisfied with the work turned in by Sole Mio, and bowed out, but two colts moved into the picture. A phone call from Delaware Park said that Royal J.D., seventh in the Preakness, would come up for the $125,000 added mile and a half test and trainer George Poole said he would enter Twist the Axe, who struggled home 10th in the Derby, but that the horse would go only if there was an off track.

Red Sox Edge Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Duane Josephson doubled with two out in the ninth inning and scored the decisive run on Ray Culp's single Thursday night as the Boston Red Sox edged the New York Yankees, 3-2, to snap a five-game losing streak.

Culp's hit came off reliever Jack Aker and gave the Red Sox a 3-1 lead, but the Boston right-hander wasn't able to finish as the Yankees rallied for a run in the ninth and left the tying run on third.

Culp was replaced by Sparky Lyle after giving up a leadoff double to Horace Clarke. Lyle struck out Thurman Munson but gave up a single to Bobby Murcer, which scored Clarke. Roy White followed with a single and Lyle was relieved by Bob Bolin, who got Johnny Ellis to hit into a force play and retired Felipe Alou on a line drive to shortstop Luis Aparicio to end the game.

Carl Yastrzemski, who entered the game with only two hits in his last 26 at-bats, singled home Josephson with two out in the eighth inning to snap a 1-1 tie. The hit came off starter Mel Stottlemyre.

Josephson opened the inning with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice and took third on a wild pitch. Stottlemyre then retired pinch hitter Joe Lahoud on a pop to the catcher but walked Reggie Smith to set the stage for Yastrzemski.

Smith's 10th homer of the season tied the score at 1-1 in the seventh after Munson had given the Yankees a 1-0 lead in the sixth with his second homer of the year.

The Yankees had a runner thrown out at the plate in the fourth inning as Munson was

Saugerties Wins Class A Crown

ARMONK League — Central Section going away and are now on the verge of sweeping all the major Section titles.

Coach Tony Vizzie's lads will play Poughkeepsie for the A-AA Open crown tomorrow, 2 p.m., at the Millbrook High School field. Poughkeepsie defeated Roosevelt of Hyde Park yesterday, 2-0.

The Sawyers now have a 17-1 overall record. They won the Dutchess County Scholastic pitcher for Saugerties. Dave struck out five, walked four and allowed just two singles. Three HG pitchers held the Sawyers to just three hits. Tom Propper, the second of the three, took the loss.

The winners took a 1-0 lead in the top of the fourth as Gerry Malgieri reached first on a walk, moved to second on a fielder's choice and scored as the second baseman booted a line shot by Rich Koegel.

Horace Greeley tied the game in the bottom of the fourth as Tom Curtow walked, stole second and went to third on a single by Bill Lee. Lee and Curtow then executed the double steal, producing the tying marker.

The losers went ahead, 2-1, in the seventh with a single and scampers all the way home on a game-winning double by Dave Smith.

"It was a great game," said Vizzie. "These boys have played well all year. They're just great. We'd really like to win the open crown, it means a lot," he concluded.

Baylor New Lakers' Pilot?

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Elgin Baylor looks like a mighty good bet today to become head coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, the key man in their quest for an elusive National Basketball Association championship.

It seems likely that Baylor has already come to terms with Laker owner Jack Kent Cooke. Formal announcement of his selection could be made within a matter of hours.

One source said the announcement would be "a blockbuster" and Baylor could certainly come under that category. He would be following in the trail blazed by Bill

Russell, black coach of the Boston Celtics.

If he can get more mileage out of his surgery-scarred legs, Baylor would be a player-coach. Always supremely popular with the fans, this would enhance his value as a gate attraction, a factor not to be overlooked.

Cooke, a most successful sports entrepreneur and a millionaire who no longer is motivated solely by financial considerations, wants desperately to win an NBA title with the Lakers. That is why he fired Coach Joe Mullaney Thursday, a man who like other Laker coaches came close but could not win the league championship. Mullaney's record in two seasons was 94-70 and he made the playoffs both times.

At 36, Baylor may not be through as a player although he sat out most of last season recovering from surgery for repair of a torn Achilles tendon in his right foot.

Even if he is through after 13 years as an NBA superstar, he still could be the best choice as coach of the Lakers.

He is well respected by his fellow players, a fast man with a quip who can take the wind out of a stuffed-shirt's sails. He can be figured to handle his team mate Wilt Chamberlain, also in the superstar category, who has had trouble with Laker coaches.

The third Laker superstar, Jerry West, can be calculated to give his all under any coach. He's that kind of man and that kind of player.

Signs began to point to Baylor as the next Laker coach a week ago when he was mentioned as a prospect for the vacated job at the University of Washington.

He may have used the Washington offer as a lever on Cooke with the tacit approval of Fred Schaus, general manager and former Laker coach.

John Miller Happy He Stayed

ATLANTA (UPI)—John Miller was glad he didn't yield to his impulse and take a vacation from the professional golf tour.

But the 24-year-old Californian, who went into today's second round of the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic with a two-stroke lead over four runners-up, including favorite Jack Nicklaus, came mighty close to not playing here.

"Everything I had done since the Carr-Kite match caught the imagination of the knowledgeable Scots, who know the requirements of Carnoustie's rugged 6,828-yard, par-72 seaside links.

Carr, emulating his illustrious father, has shot only sub par golf all week. For instance, he had six pars and five birdies when he eliminated Alistair Wilson of Scotland 8 and 7 Thursday.

Kite, a cool lad, was so dedicated to golf he said he had no further ambitions other than his college degree in business administration. He has been seven under par for the five matches he played here this week.

In the top bracket, either Simmons or Kite will get knocked out, perhaps by each other before the end of the semifinals.

In the lower half either Melnyk or Updegraff could get to the semifinals.

A Kite-Melnyk final was the talk of the amateur golf world, concentrated on this historic championship.

Of the remaining eight, four was due in part to the fact that he had his clubs adjusted and wanted to try them out.

Only one stroke under par Miller complained. "I after eight holes Thursday, Miller came to life on the ninth I figured it was time to go home and take a rest."

Miller did tie for 10th at green for an eagle-three. Five Houston but was down in a birdies and a three-putt bogey over the final nine gave him his 65.

"When I missed the green that far to the right (only the foot putt on the final hole for a second alone but he lipped the cup. At that, his 67 was the best round he's ever shot in the classic.

Nicklaus hadn't played since winning the Byron Nelson golf classic four weeks ago.

Lee Trevino, winner last week at Memphis, who needs the $25,000 first prize in this tournament to evict Nicklaus as this year's leading money winner, headed a list of seven 68 shooters. The others were Bob Barbossa, Jim Colbert, Rod Curl, Jim Dent, Gardner Dickinson and Bob Lunn.

There were eight golfers at 69 including South African Gary Player and Masters champion Charles Coody.

Then There Were 4 Americans

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Four Americans, three Britons and an Irishman squared off today in the quarter-finals of the 1971 British Amateur Golf Championship, and the prospect of an all-American final was far from dim.

Even though the British Walker Cup team beat the United States at St. Andrews last year, they were unable to throw up any bigger challenge to this 86-year-old title than their cousins from abroad did in the round of eight which survived from the original field of 256.

Jim Simmons, 21, of Butler, Pa., led the assault against Hugh Stuart of Scotland.

Tom Kite Jr. of Dallas faced Roddy Carr, 20-year-old son of the ex-champion Joe Carr of Ireland.

Another satisfied Volkswagen customer.

Now why would anyone in his right mind come to a Volkswagen dealer for a big, domestic car? Let's start with our 16-point inspection system. We turn that high-priced piece of machinery over to an even higher-priced piece of machinery: A VW mechanic. He checks and re-checks all the major mechanical parts. And some you probably never heard of. (Like the tie rods and ball-joints.) If he finds anything fouled up during the Volkswagen 16-point inspection, it gets fixed up. After that, only if he thinks the car's fit, he places the guarantee in the windshield. It covers the engine, transmission, front axle assemblies, rear axle, electrical system, and brake system. It says a VW dealer will repair or replace these parts, for 30 days or 1000 miles (whichever comes first), for free. After all, would the people who sold 18,000,000 Volkswagens all over the world stick you with a lemon? Just because it wasn't ours to begin with.

Section Nine Athletes In Record Qualifier

NANUET Six new sectional records were established, as Clarkstown High, Rockland County champions, dominate the Section 9 track meet by qualifying seven athletes for the New York State Intersectional meet June 12 at Endicott.

Nanuet qualified six and Newburgh Academy, DUSO champions for the past 10 years, will send four. Three places each were won by Washingtonville.

Cornwall and Warwick of the Orange County League.

Tom Andry of Warwick, who qualified in both the shotput and discus, heaved the discus 163 feet, 6 inches for a Section 9 record. The old mark of 160.6 was set last year by Gary Kulisek, NFA junior, who placed fourth.

Dave Billings, Nyack junior, was clocked in 9:22.6 in the two-mile run to shatter the old standard of 9:29.9 set by Ray Velez of Highland Falls in 1966.

Washingtonville's crack miler, Chuck Forsy, won his specialty in 4:23.8, which fell far short of the Section 9 record of 4:17.9. Disappointed, Forsy scratched himself from the 2-mile run for which he had qualified with the season's best time of 9:50.2.

Newburgh's mile relay team lowered the Section 9 standard to 3:26.7. Running for NFA were Barry Tatum, Vince Hayes, Dave Whitted and Tim Newkirk.

Nanuet's 2-mile relay team clipped nearly 10 seconds off the Section 9 record in a 8:12.4 clocking. The runners were Hank Franklin, Greg Johns, Keith Dines and Alan Roy.

Darryl Brown of Nanuet set a new high jump record of 6 feet, 3½ inches, breaking the old mark he shared with Ben Fields of Washingtonville at 6 feet, 6½ inches.

Joe Riley of Kingston was second in this event. Brown, the only double winner of the double, went on to take the triple jump at 44 feet, 3½ inches.

Suffern's Mark Connors ran the 440 in 48.7 to set a new record in that event. Allan Randall of Rondout Valley Central placed third in Billings' record breaking two-mile run.

Other winners: 120 high hurdles: Bruce Roosa, Valley Central; 100 yard dash: Charles White, Spring Valley, 10.2; 180 low hurdles: Jim Warger, Clarkstown, 19.99; 880 yards: Bruce Wooley, Clarkstown, 1:57.7.

220 yards: Dave Ochse, Cornwall; 3, Rosecrance, Liberty; 4, Graham, Rondout Valley. Time 9:23.0. Shot put: Dave Yates, Warwick, 52 0/2. Long jump: Buster Keyes, Clarkstown, 21.9. Paul vault: Rick Dinsmore, Washingtonville, 11.6. 880 relay: Nyack (Sanders, Hudson, Jackson, Washington).

What You Can Do About Dangerous Drugs

The Narcotics Binge — A Form of Rebellion

Fourth in Series
By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

This plaintive observation was youngsters are rude, unappreciative of their parents' contributions, or clucking over their tastes and styles in costumes and music — and hair. Every generation since then, parents have likely voiced similar complaints, objecting that Now parents have a new concern — why should so many youngsters be experimenting with if not adopting drugs that influence the mind?

There are no simple answers — it is a complex phenomenon. Various experts offer a variety of reasons and speculations, and many reasons for abusing drugs as there are people abusing them. Similarly, they think, there are just as varied reasons why some people become alcoholics, or stuff themselves with food.

The reason, or excuse, for drug abuses vary widely. . . . a form of rebellion . . . one manifestation of the uncertain, unsettled adolescent seeking to learn "Who am I" . . . a way of forgetting worries and hurts, and boredom and frustration . . .

a means to hit back at parents . . . a way of experiencing love for others . . . a mental and emotional adventure . . . a key to escape dismal reality . . . curiosity . . . pressure from one's peers and the need to go along and to belong and not to be "chicken" . . . doubts whether mankind has any future anyhow . . . the presence and voices of persuasive evangelists touting the attractions of different drugs . . .

American society is drug-obsessed. In 1970, physicians and pharmacists turned out more than 225 million prescriptions for drugs that affect the mind — stimulants, tranquilizers, anti-depressants, sedatives and others — compared with 167 million in 1965, by one estimate.

Adults were the main consumers of these chemicals. Drugs are advertised as answers to practically every problem or woe, capable of bringing quick cures. And when parents "have a medicine cabinet full of drugs, the kids can make a big thing of that," says one psychologist.

For some young people, the mind-influencing drugs seem to offer "a magical, effortless solution" to major problems of life, says Dr. Henry Brill of Pilgrim State Hospital, West Brentwood, N.Y.

Pressures upon today's youths are enormous. They are caught up in an era of rapid social change which leaves adults bewildered and confused and puzzled as well.

Many youths have grown up in affluence, and the American dream of "giving one's children a better chance" doesn't make great sense to them, for a generation "that rarely imagines a society in which starvation, unemployment, or depression will be major possibilities," says Dr. Kenneth Keniston, Yale University psychologist.

Parents who survived the Great Depression of the 1930s, and World War II and challenges since then, often find this view hard to take or to reconcile. They worked hard for money, security and a better break for their children, who now don't seem to appreciate what had gone before in recent human history, who seemingly emphasize NOW rather than the future. Furthermore, they seem sometimes contemptuous of the Puritan ethic that work is the road to salvation.

Much different is the reason or pressure for youths in slums and ghettos, particularly Negroes, to turn to the escape and "peace" offered by drugs like heroin.

They have little chance for the good life of good education and good jobs and security, and can look upon the society of the middle class white youth as "a far better bargain than malnutrition, rat bites, cold, loneliness and a rejecting, hostile society," says Dr. David Gottlieb of Pennsylvania State University. It is astonishing, he says, that more ghetto youths have not sought escape through drugs.

PRESSURES on today's youth are enormous. They become willing to try all kinds of experiments, including some which fail. That can include drugs, sex and school dropout.

Door-to-Door Collections Saturday

Another Ulster Recycling Project

SPRING LAKE

The latest pilot recycling project in the Town of Ulster Saturday will involve door-to-door collections in the Krauss Farms, Sunset Park, Forest Glen and Lincoln Park areas. A town highway truck will start making pickups 10 a.m. of bundled newspapers and magazines, aluminum cans and other aluminum containers and bottles, all in separate cartons.

Mrs. Shirley Kobran, project chairman, said residents in other areas can cooperate by bringing their collected items to one of two collection depots at Spring Lake Town Garage adjacent to Spring Lake Firehouse and to the parking area at Wal-laces in Ulster Shopping Plaza. The collection depots will be open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday only. Newspapers and magazines should be bundled separately with less than 25 pounds to a bundle and aluminum cans and bottles should be separated and delivered in plastic or cardboard containers. Mrs. Kobran emphasized that glass bottles or jars should be clean and metal rings removed from the bottles. The accumulation will be delivered to various area manufacturers for recycling. This will alleviate the bulk these items create at the town landfill and eliminate these items from the town's streets and empty lots. If those outside the pilot project area cooperate by bringing in recyclable items, the project will eventually be expanded to include the entire township.

Mrs. Kobran stressed that the recycling drive will be held rain or shine. Anyone who would like to assist in the drive may report to one of the depots tomorrow morning, she said.

Mrs. Kobran said that meetings held with other units operating independently in the county have indicated that the recycling program organized in the Kingston area will expand to include most of the county.

She said local Task Force members have been in discussions with Jerry Bone, who heads the Saugerties Ecology Committee. Bone has coordinated several recycling drives in the Town of Saugerties and is reportedly interested in county-wide participation at some future date.

To bring this about, Mrs. Kobran said, public cooperation will be required so that recyclable items are separated and saved in separate containers for each collection day. Cooperation of public officials has been excellent and this should help bring about county-wide participation, she said.

Dutchess Dog and Hobby Show

RHINEBECK Children of the Rhinebeck Red Hook area must have been doing something during the long, cold winter to while away the time. At least the members of the Northern Dutchess Hospital Mothers' Club think so, and who should know better? A Dog and Hobby Show has been planned for Saturday, June 12 at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds, Rhinebeck, starting at 10 a.m. The show will be under the direction of Mrs. Walter Flynn, assisted by Mrs. Dominick Giacalone.

Mrs. Flynn said that children, 13 and under, may register their entries from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, June 5 at the Rhinebeck Town Hall or the Red Hook Fire House. Registration fee is nominal.

Prizes will be awarded to the best entries and refreshments will be available. All proceeds will be used in continuing the Mothers' Club support of the maternity and pediatric units at Northern Dutchess Hospital.

W. Hurley Eye Clinic

WEST HURLEY An eye clinic for the detection for Amblyopia will be held at the West Hurley Elementary School Building II June 7 from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Sponsored by the West Hurley Pre-School P-TA, this program will be headed by Mrs. Raymond Kirk, RN and Pre-School chairman, who has gone through a series of training programs in order to make this service available to pre-school children.

All pre-school children may be tested, but this is not an eye examination. The primary concern of these tests is the detection of "lazy eye," which is usually caused by one eye learning faster than the other, leaving the child with one eye doing all or most of the work and the other growing weaker. This can be corrected if discovered and treated before the age of six usually.

Boyer Outlines University Needs for Next Decade

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON

A combined luncheon meeting of the three service clubs, Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary heard the chancellor of the State University of New York remark that "a painful and abrupt shift" and "an engagement in the study of priorities" will be necessary for higher education in the decade ahead.

Dr. Ernest LeRoy Boyer, the first chancellor ever to visit Kingston, outlined the needs for the next decade to a large gathering Thursday afternoon at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Recognizing the problems on the campus today, Dr. Boyer said it will be essential to recapture the spirit of confidence and trust. Antagonism must heal; it calls for greater understanding, he said. The university must be a place where the established order of things can be probed.

The chancellor said the system must recognize the fiscal realities we face and while we are obligated to build the university the fiscal aspects must be kept clearly in view.

He said it will be necessary to institute critical reviews of the budgetary processes. Defending the system, the chancellor noted that education is a long term investment that pays off a thousand fold. "We can't allow our human resources to go to waste."

In a third objective, Dr. Boyer said the system must find a more creative way to continue educational work; change methods to match the times.

Dr. Boyer, presenting the final objective, said "we must reexamine the place of values. We must learn again to make judgements and be able to choose between better and best." He noted that too many are hiding the real issues by avoiding contact and by being afraid to bring them in the open. He said we must "probe in depth to find the moral conviction of our own." He said it seems at times that we have lost our way. The pain now is a pain of transition and not decay, he observed.

During the question and answer period, he was asked about his feelings on the proposed deferred tuition plan now under discussion in the State Legislature.

Dr. Boyer said he gave a cautious endorsement and explained that such a plan would have a tendency to harm the excellent scholarship programs students are afforded in New York State. He seemed concerned about the youngster of today mortgaging themselves for an education.

On drugs on the campus, he said there is no easy answer. He noted the State University system is determined to work with the community and the students to find a solution.

A question about post-graduate courses in engineering and science at New Paltz was answered in his observation that the State University is currently putting together a Master Plan.

Larry Quilty, a past Kiwanis president and program chairman, introduced the chancellor. There was an impressive gathering of area educators many of whom were introduced. Quilty, who is chairman of the College Council at New Paltz, in a side remark facetiously wondered who was "minding the store." The chancellor's wife, the former Kathryn Tyson, accompanied him on this first visit to Kingston.

In a complimentary remark,

Dr. Boyer said Kingston appears to be a place where one would like to live as well as visit.

Prior to the address, the Kingston Kiwanis scholarship winners, who were in attendance, were introduced. They included Kevin Kirk, Edmund Phillips, Richard White, Patricia Czarski, Charlotte Nunes, Michael Hoffer and Christine A. Miller.

Referring to his much publicized chancellor's house in Albany, Dr. Boyer started his address in a lighter vein by inquiring if anyone would like to buy a slightly used chancellor's house in Albany real cheap. The chancellor explained in previous press interviews that he does not use the "mansion," he has his own home, and the chancellor's house is used for State University meetings.

Couple From Sullivan County Lose Adopted Son to Mother

FOSTERDALE, N. Y. (UPI) — The Sullivan County Family Court, acting on a decision by an appellate court, has ordered that a 4-year-old boy who has lived with his father most of his life be returned to his mother, had the child since Henry was The child, Henry T. O'Dell, five months old, shortly after he and Mrs. Roser parted. Henry was "passed back and forth," between Mrs. Roser and O'Dell until, "Dell said Thursday, he applied for custody. He said Mrs. Roser signed the custody papers in January, 1968.

In November, 1970, O'Dell married and Henry began living with the O'Dells in their Fosterdale home.

Prior to that time, O'Dell said, Mrs. Roser had begun proceedings to get Henry returned to her and in the spring of 1970 the Sullivan County Family Court awarded him custody of the blue-eyed blond boy.

Mrs. Roser appealed to the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court in Albany and the court reversed the ruling in May, ordering Henry returned to Mrs. Roser.

O'Dell said he did not have funds to contest the case in the appellate court and argued the matter himself before the panel.

Mrs. Roser's attorney, Nathan Hand of the Sullivan County Legal Services, said Henry was to be returned to Mrs. Roser by June 21.

O'Dell said that last Tuesday he was called into Family Court to discuss visitation rights and he claimed, Mrs. Roser said she had no place to keep the child and wanted to put him in a foster home until she could get a home of her own.

Mrs. Roser has five other children living in foster homes chosen by the Sullivan County Social Services Department. She said she has quit her job as a chambermaid and intends to set up housekeeping with all six of her children.

Paltz Residents Have Bond Issue

NEW PALTZ practice on the Middle School athletic fields, necessitating additional expense in transportation, and disrupting the Middle School's physical education program.

Supervising Principal Fred Dippel has issued a statement in support of the bond issue, and a group of concerned citizens, led by Chairman of the Ulster County Legislature and New Paltz resident Peter J. Savago, have worked in favor of it.

A proposition will be presented on the ballot at the New Paltz Central School District elections Wednesday, June 9, which would authorize the district to spend $150,000 to be raised by a bond issue to complete work on the high school athletic field.

When the new high school was built, the athletic fields were only graded and seeded. The high school athletic teams must

Wyman Resigns Job, Takes New Position

Applications for Wyman's old job are being accepted by the Board through the supervising principal.

Lead Concentrations Increase, According to Seven-Year Samples

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air samples taken seven years apart in three big cities show sharp increases in lead concentrations, according to a report released today by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Scientists have not determined exactly the effect of airborne lead on humans, but an EPA staff scientist said in another report earlier this week it might be the difference between health and disease for some people. He said the main source of the lead is motor vehicle exhausts.

Today's report said samples taken in 1961-1962 and again in 1968-1969 showed increased lead levels at all but two of the 19 sampling locations in the Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Cincinnati areas.

The report said studies based on blood samples taken from 872 women in the areas were still being analyzed and could not form the basis for any general conclusions.

The study was conducted by the University of Cincinnati for the U.S. Air Pollution Control Office, with additional financial support from the American Petroleum Institute and the International Lead Zinc Research Organization, Inc.

The report showed lead increases ranging from 33 per cent to 64 per cent at all eight sampling sites in the Los Angeles area.

In the Philadelphia region, increases from 2 to 36 per cent were found at six locations. A slight decrease of eight-hundredths of one per cent was noted at one point.

A decrease of 2.69 per cent was found at one location near Cincinnati, but three other locations in the area showed increases ranging from 13 to 33 per cent.

The earlier report by Dr. Ronald E. Engel of EPA's Air Pollution Control Office referred to the findings, and noted they "did not confirm the association between ambient air lead and blood lead levels."

Wawarsing Residents Say 'No' To Proposed Zoning Ordinance

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

The results of the questionnaire sent out to Town of Wawarsing residents on the proposed zoning ordinance are in and tabulated. Zoning is not popular.

The report on the questionnaires was delivered at last night's meeting of the Town of Wawarsing Board by Councilman Jerome Elkin, the questionnaire committee's chairman.

Elkin reported that they sent out about 4,700 questionnaires and got back about 1,145. On the question pertaining to the proposed zoning ordinance, about 700 said they were not in favor of it, to about 143 who said they were. By narrower margins, town residents voted against limiting zoning, or any zoning at all.

They were heavily in favor of controls on air, water, and noise pollution, however. A space was left for comments, and residents complained about loose dogs, littering, junk cars and a number of other items. At least one area resident said he was in favor of controls on "political pollution."

Elkin said he would wait for all members of the board to read and examine his report before offering a resolution based on the study, but he did say the comments received pointed out the need for a junk car ordinance as soon as possible, and he was very gratified to the concern shown by area residents for the ecology and recycling.

Ellenville Village Attorney Alex Nirenberg, speaking as a private citizen, said the returns showed that the town board, in this instance, did not know what the people wanted before the questionnaire, and suggested that the already enacted subdivision laws be made the subject of a questionnaire.

The board demonstrated no enthusiasm over the suggestion. Town Supervisor Frank W. Harkin said the zoning ordinance had been amended by the planning board to a great extent, and an attempt had been made to conform to the people's wishes.

A number of residents present at the meeting assaulted Superintendent of Highways Karl T. Fleckenstein about the condition of the town's roads. Leading the charge was Edward Hannan, a resident of Kerhonkson, who lives on Foordmore Road, a road whose condition is a popular subject of invective for town residents.

Though Campbell Road, Jean Street and the Lackawack Hill area roads were all held up as examples of badly maintained highways by their residents, Hannan and Foordmore Road held the spotlight.

Hannan said the road had three foot ditches on its sides, soft shoulders, was too narrow and had some telephone poles in its right of way, but he was most incensed by the lack of signs designating the road as being one under construction.

He said State Highway Law 4 said a road under construction must be so marked, and that Foordmore Road was not. It was his opinion that if an accident occurred on the road the town would be liable for damages, and he asked Town Attorney Joseph Friedman if he concurred.

He also asked what the town board proposed to do about the situation.

Friedman said he was not going to give a legal opinion to a potential plaintiff at a public meeting, and said there was nothing the board could do about the situation as Fleckenstein is an elected official, and the board can only vote his department funds, not control its workings.

Harkin, to demonstrate the lack of board control over Fleckenstein, said "Karl Fleckenstein, I now order you to put those signs up tomorrow." He then turned to Hannan and said, "He can now tell me to jump in the river." Harkin, with Councilman Frank Greco concurring, said there was nothing the board could do about the town's roads unless the position of superintendent of highways was made appointive. Elkin said town residents would have to suffer until Election Day.

Rosendale to Hire SPCA to Collar Dogs

ROSENDALE

The Rosendale Town Board agreed at Wednesday's monthly meeting to hire the Ulster County SPCA to patrol the township to collar unlicensed and loose dogs.

The action came after several long-standing complaints about an abundance of dogs running loose in the Rosendale area. Supervisor Gerard Defelice said the problem was particularly acute in the Tillson Estates area, where dogs are known to roam in packs.

An official of the SPCA was supposed to speak to the Town Board at Wednesday night's meeting, but he did not appear, according to the supervisor. Defelice said that the Town Board still must find out how much the SPCA services will cost the town.

Efforts to hire a dog warden have, to date, failed with no local residents expressing an interest in assuming the position.

Also discussed at length at the Town Board meeting was the operation of the contabulary's radio communications. One woman, said Defelice, complained about the length of time it takes for the dispatcher to answer a phone call. The Town Board said it would look into the possibility of updating and improving the service of the dispatcher and police communications. Efforts will also be made to repair faulty radios used by the constables.

One resident said that the town should adopt the state recommended system of appointing an assessor for a six-year term. It was pointed out that a public referendum on that matter will be held in late June.

The resurfacing and widening of Mountain Road and Hickory Bush Road is expected to be completed by the end of this month.

Love Will Conquer Husband's Fling

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 17 years. We have a lovely family, but if you use my letter in your column, please do not mention their ages or what sex our children are.

I love my husband with all my heart and the thought of infidelity has never crossed my mind. Three months ago, I accidentally found out that my husband was having an affair with a young woman in her mid-20s. He is 46. I caught him flat-footed, so there was no denying it. He was terribly upset at having been caught, claimed he loves me, and it will never happen again. I am so broken up over this, I cannot tell you the agony I have suffered.

I am considered a very good-looking woman and would have no trouble at all doing to him what he did to me. This is the only way I know of hurting him like he has hurt me, so he will know what I have gone thru. I know two wrongs don't make a right, but at least we will be even.

Is there a better solution?

LOVED AND LOST
DEAR ABBY: There must be, because there couldn't be a worse one! Don't kid yourself. Should you have a fling and announce it to your husband, he wouldn't suffer as you did. Men tend to view such things with far less emotion than women. (My mail shows 50 women to one man agonizing over an unfaithful mate.) If you love him, forgive him. And if you really want to hurt him, love him to death. He'll feel like the world's biggest heel.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son and a daughter whom we try to treat equally in all things. Our daughter, who is a few years older, did not want to go to college. After graduation from high school she worked for a year and then got married.

Our son chose to go to college, and we are paying for his college education. Is our daughter legally or morally entitled to the money we saved on her college education because she didn't go? She thinks she is entitled to cash in the same amount of money we are spending on her brother's education.

JUST CURIOUS
DEAR ABBY: If you had offered your daughter either the cash or a college education, and she chose the cash, she would be entitled to the cash. Since you offered her only college education and she turned it down, she is entitled to nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am not saying this to brag, but I am the favorite relative in a family where there is a lot of backbiting and petty fighting going on. A niece of mine invited me to attend the christening of her baby. She told me that I am the only aunt she is inviting, so if anybody in the family asks how come I went to the christening I should say that I just happened to drop in at my niece's house unexpectedly that morning and she invited me to the christening on the spur of the moment. I don't like lying, Abby, but I don't want to hurt my niece's feelings as she thinks it's an honor for me to be the only aunt at her baby's christening. What would you do?

FAVORITE AUNT
DEAR ABBY: I'd tell her that I appreciate the honor, but if I had to lie in order to accept it, I would have to decline.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:25 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Your Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are likely to find that you are pressured into getting into an argument that can take you away from the good aspects that are otherwise in effect and by which you can accomplish results of an important nature. Show you are able to gain the goodwill of those vital to your progress.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Pay those bills without trying to find fault with them, just because you are in a bad mood. A loved one may be in a bad mood, but be patient. Smile more and be cheerful.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Keep out of a possible altercation between an associate and an official. You could be the loser. A close tie does not agree with an associate, keep busy and you are happier.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Work industriously if you want those new and improved conditions to materialize. Think constructively and become more successful. Attend to business before going out for amusement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep an appointment with an expert before you step out for recreation. Your intuition is good but use good manners and judgment if you want to solve problem wisely.

Do some reading tonight.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You must plan your time carefully to take care of family and outside affairs. Jumping here and there, without a method could cause you to accomplish very little. Don't waste valuable time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) An ideal day to contact good friends and relations for whatever it is you have in mind. See what is expected of you. Make sure work is out of the way early so that you have ample time for pleasure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Start early on your household chores during the day so that you have time to go out with good friends in the evening. Follow advice of a financial expert. Don't do anything that will irk mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You need pleasure away from home that perks up your spirit, so get out early and meet with a good friend. Get the problems clarified through discussion. Much devotion at home is necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Time spent in the quiet of your study will show you how to handle a problematical affair. Plan for a more affluent future. Use special care in travel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A fine friend has the key to today's problems, so talk to them over and get right data and advice. Don't invest heavily or you could find yourself in trouble. Think carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Attend to personal duties and forget making investments that could be too risky. Improving your appearance is important now. Important matters will be coming up soon and you need to be at your best.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Instead of worrying about what you can't do, go ahead with other duties accurately so that you can have success in other areas. Those of different background to your own can be most helpful now. Don't be afraid to approach them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who will be very gregarious at times and most reticent at other times. It would be well to teach your youngster to charter a course and to follow through instead of wavering and being undecided. Otherwise a fine career and life here could be ruined. There is ability to combine old and new ideas, standards, to a most successful middle path. Religious instruction important here.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

CHEATING? (Q) I love this guy a real lot. Every night on the bus he holds my hand and sits very close to me. But, you see, he goes out with this other girl, not me. He is obviously cheating on her because he likes me, but do you think he likes me enough to ask me to go out with him? Please tell me what to do to make him like me as much as the other girl, or, better yet, more than her.—Wants To Be No. 1 in Minneapolis.

(A.) I can't tell you how to make him like you as much as the other girl, or more.

I can tell you that when a girl tries to make a boy do something, she is likely to fail.

And I can tell you that if he is cheating on the other girl he probably won't hesitate to cheat on you.

TAUNTED: (Q) I am a big girl. I'm six feet tall and weigh 190. I'm not pretty. I have pimples. The boys call me Watusi Woman.

They offer to take me out, but not on regular dates.

I want a regular boy friend. I want to look like other girls. I desperately need your advice.—Ashamed in New York City.

(A.) A six-foot-tall girl or woman can be attractive and happy. It is true that she has to work at looking good, but useful work is one of the best ways to find happiness.

Start now to exercise, diet, and lose weight. See a dermatologist, too. Improve yourself physically and mentally. Find friends who are happy and cheerful. Being around them will help you. Stay away from boys with dirty minds. All girls should do this. The most beautiful girl can be dirtied by such associations.

Even TV's Peacock Going

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's peacock is singing his swan song this summer. The colorful bird will disappear this fall from the nation's television screens somewhat like the cheshire cat in "Alice in Wonderland"—gradually and a victim of obsolescence.

Elimination of the peacock in prime evening time is the beginning of a network effort to cut down the clutter of odds and ends at the beginning and end of programs and in the commercial break.

The peacock was introduced years ago to tell viewers with black and white sets that they were missing the treat of color. Today, virtually all programs are in color and close to half of the 60-million TV homes are equipped to receive it. For some time, the bird has been most useful to hard-up joke writers of Bob Hope and Johnny Carson. What viewers could use now is a tip off when a program is in black-and-white. When those monotone shades turn up, in old "Beverly Hills" reruns and such, it is easy to believe that the set has gone on the fritz. A picture of a sparrow or blackbird would fill the niche.

NBC also will cut out a lot of those one-sentence spots urging the viewer to tune in some future program, and it will reduce the time occupied by opening and closing program credits. It still will tell who applied the makeup and designed the clothes, however, since it is mandatory in union contracts. But under the new rules, Ed McMahon will no longer be announcing Carson's upcoming guests while our eyes are telling us that Florence Bush styled Miss Dawn's hair and Botany supplied the hero's sports jackets.

These moves will liberate only a minute or so of the welter, but the tiny step is in the right direction. A lot of promotional material and gimmickry has crept into the station breaks. While no more time is given to commercials, more of them are crowded into the breaks. Thus there are piggy-back commercials—two products of the same or related sponsors in one time spot—and, more recently, two 30-second

Here is a good hand to try on your friends. Make them play three no-trump against a diamond lead. Five clubs presents no problem. After they go down, don't laugh at them. We watched one of the best players in the country toss the game out the window when the hand came up in a rubber bridge game.

The play starts simply enough. You duck two diamonds and win the third one and here is the key play. You must throw away a club from dummy!

Now play the ace of clubs to see if the queen will drop. It doesn't and you knew it wouldn't.

Now lead your last diamond and discard another club from dummy. West is on lead and can play any card he wishes, but you will wind up with nine tricks. Two spades, one heart, one diamond and five clubs.

What happens if you don't get rid of those two clubs? You won't collect five club tricks. When you play the ace and king, you will be left with the 5-4-2 and dummy with 8-6. In other words, you will be blocked in dummy with a good club in your hand.

You would go down several

Senate Votes on All-Volunteer Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amendments to hasten the Nixon administration's goal of an all-volunteer military force, by ending the draft or limiting extension to one year, came up for Senate votes today.

The amendment by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., to stop all draft calls July 1 was given little chance before the vote.

A closer vote was predicted for the proposal by Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., to halve the two-year House-approved draft extension. This could bring a year earlier the White House goal of a volunteer army by mid-1973.

Meanwhile, Senate leaders worked toward an agreement for a June 18 vote on cutting off funds for the Vietnam war. The agreement, reportedly reached Thursday, would delay two weeks any effort to limit debate on the over-all draft-extension bill and its many amendments.

Under the reported time-limit agreement, the Senate would take up next week the McGovern-Hatfield amendment to cut off Indochina war funds after Dec. 31.

Republican sources reported some supporters of the McGovern-Hatfield measure are reluctant to back any debate cutoff before a vote on their amendment.

McGovern-Hatfield lost last year 55 to 39, and backers claim it has at least 40 votes this year—well above the 34 needed to block any debate cutoff. A two-thirds vote is required to block a filibuster.

Senate leaders had planned to move for a debate cutoff after the vote on the Schweiker amendment.

If the extension measure isn't passed, draft officials say, they could call some of the millions of men in a deferred status, including college students.

In related developments: The Foreign Relations Committee scheduled an afternoon meeting to decide whether to approve the McGovern-Hatfield amendment or any other proposal aimed at ending or limiting U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Monday is the likely day for a secret Senate session being requested by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., to discuss a staff report on Laos, including reported U.S. financial support of Thai troops.

—Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., said they will seek to impose a $68-billion spending limit on the Pentagon for the year that begins July 1. An effort to put a $66-billion ceiling on this year's spending failed, 42 to 31.

Switch in South Vietnamese Tactics

SAIGON (AP) — High-ranking South Vietnamese field commanders today acknowledged heavy losses at the Cambodian town of Suoi and said they have switched to mobile tactics in cross-border operations.

One reason cited by a South Vietnamese general is the loss of backup U.S. ground forces. He indicated the South Vietnamese would continue to rely heavily on full U.S. air support for some time to come.

The South Vietnamese officers briefed newsmen on Cambodian operations but specified that their names could not be disclosed.

They said Saigon's Task Force 8, which retreated from south of Suoi and 80 miles north of Saigon, suffered 300 killed, wounded or missing, but some of its 74 missing have been gun straggling back across the border. The force is no longer effective for combat, and it will take about a month to rebuild, one general said.

Two other task forces numbering about 3,000 men have been diverted from another operation in Cambodia 69 miles away to protect the border between South Vietnam and Laos.

One South Vietnamese general said he would not promise to destroy the three enemy divisions in that part of eastern Cambodia or their bases, but he would "reduce their potential and try to do the best to cut off their infiltration into South Vietnam."

Field commanders said the withdrawal in the past year of two U.S. divisions from the 3rd Military region, the 11 provinces around Saigon, had forced the South Vietnamese troops to provide their own highway security on the Vietnamese side of the border for their supply lines into Cambodia.

"This mission of 10 men is now reduced to five," said a

South Vietnamese general. "I feel some difficulties."

While conceding serious losses at Suoi, the general claimed South Vietnamese troops and U.S. aircraft wiped out more than 1,000 enemy troops, the equivalent of a regiment. He said four North Vietnamese regiments had moved on Suoi and would have annihilated Task Force 8 if it had not pulled back.

Ship Returns With Prisoners Still on Board

ABOARD THE UPSHUR AT SEA (UPI)—A ship carrying 13 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war to repatriation today waited in vain for the Communists to show up at the rendezvous point and then turned back for its home port, the prisoners still aboard.

The North Vietnamese announced Thursday they would not accept the POWs because the allies had promised to return 570 men. South Vietnam and the International Red Cross said earlier that only 13 of the group, when questioned individually, wanted to return home.

The Upshur already was at the rendezvous point in the South China Sea 20 miles from North Vietnam when the Communists made their announcement at the Paris Peace Talks. The ship remained off the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) for about five hours and when no ships appeared at the scheduled release time turned around and steamed toward Da Nang, 100 miles to the south.

Newsmen aboard the ship were not allowed to talk to the prisoners, who were in the vessel's sick bay, but a guard on duty said, "That's very sad. The prisoners are going to be very unhappy."

The Upshur, a 533-foot U.S. Navy transport flying the American, South Vietnamese and International Red Cross flags for the occasion, was to unload the prisoners on a barge and they were to cross to any Communist vessels that appeared.

While they were waiting for the North Vietnamese to appear, the 13 got an American-style meal of steak, eggs, fruit, coffee and milk. "They got whatever they asked for," a guard explained.

The official (North) Vietnamese News Agency (VNA) said in a broadcast Thursday night the "odious treachery" of the United States and South Vietnam in reducing the number of prisoners made cancellation of the release "a necessity."

24th Body Recovered in Peach Orchards

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Another body was unearthed Thursday from the crude graveyard in peach orchards along the Feather River, bringing the toll to two dozen in America's worst confirmed mass murder.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said the body—the first dug up in five days—was found about 300 feet from the river in the orchard where most of the hacked and stabbed remains of itinerant farm hands have been uncovered. The site had been covered with irrigation water previously.

The sheriff said he would send a team of deputies back to the orchard to dig at another suspicious earth indentation which has been under water until today.

Across the river in Marysville, mass murder suspect Juan V. Corona was interviewed for 2½ hours by a court-appointed psychiatrist.
